Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-9 and 10-13, drawn to a ventilating closure system for a doorway and a system for ventilating a garage, respectively, classified in class 160, subclass 87.
- II. Claims 14-17, drawn to a garage door screen, classified in class 160, subclass 354.
- III. Claims 18-20, drawn to a method of providing an intruder resistant opening across a doorway, classified in class 52, subclass 745.2.

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because: the claimed ventilating closure system for a doorway does not require the specific strap/fastener/lug arrangement of the claimed garage door screen, but instead only requires a tensioning means which could be a spring; and the claimed system for ventilating a garage does not require the lugs of the claimed garage door screen, but instead could simply have the straps tied to the brackets. The subcombination has separate utility such as for use as a gate across a pickup truck bed or a stairway landing.

Inventions II and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the claimed garage door screen can be used in a materially different process of using that product such as a process that does not include the step of repeatedly grasping each of the straps on one of the screen ends and reengaging the fastener thereon to increase tension in the strap, but rather pulling on the strap until tight only once and then tying off the strap.

Inventions III and I are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, the claimed ventilating closure system for a doorway and the claimed system for ventilating a garage could be made by another and materially different process such as one in which the screen/strap/fastener arrangement can be attached to the lugs prior to the lugs being attached to the sides of the garage doorway.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to Attorney Guy V. Manning on March 9, 2005 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
